

30-Second Emcee Introduction

Please join me in welcoming our next speaker, Erika Rothenberger.

Erika is a nationally recognized keynote speaker, bestselling author of Audacious Expansion, and a powerful voice for bold leadership and resilience. She has appeared on FOX News and was named Dynamic Woman of the Year by Modern Luxury – Philadelphia Style.

By day, she serves as Director of Performance Systems at Henkels & McCoy, and by passion, she's inspiring audiences across the country to lead with courage and expand beyond the limits they once believed possible.

A wife, mother of two, entrepreneur, and survivor turned advocate, Erika's message reminds us that the weight we carry can become the strength that builds us.

Short Bio (Event Programs | 75–100 words)

Erika Rothenberger is a nationally recognized keynote speaker, media personality, and thought leader on audacity, leadership, and personal expansion. She has appeared on FOX News and was named Dynamic Woman of the Year by Modern Luxury – Philadelphia Style in 2025.

Erika is the bestselling author of Audacious Expansion and the author of You've Got This, Boss Mama. She is also the founder of the sold-out Audacious Women's Summit and host of the Grit, Grace & Glitz Podcast.

Professionally, she serves as Director of Performance Systems at Henkels & McCoy. Erika is also a proud wife and mother to Drew and Adelyn, believing strongly in teaching life's greatest lessons through action.

Medium Bio (Conference Websites | ~200 words)

Erika Rothenberger is a nationally recognized keynote speaker, media personality, and thought leader on audacity, resilience, and bold leadership. Known for her powerful storytelling and actionable insights, she inspires audiences to expand beyond limitations and step into courageous leadership.

She has appeared on FOX News and has been featured across multiple national media outlets. In 2025, she was named Dynamic Woman of the Year by Modern Luxury – Philadelphia Style for her impact on leadership and women's advancement.

Erika is the bestselling author of Audacious Expansion and author of You've Got This, Boss Mama. Her message centers around a powerful belief: adding weight in the right areas of life builds the strength required for audacious growth.

She is the founder of the sold-out Audacious Women's Summit and host of the Grit, Grace & Glitz Podcast, where she highlights stories of leadership, resilience, and reinvention.

Professionally, Erika serves as Director of Performance Systems at Henkels & McCoy, where she combines her engineering background with her passion for developing people, strengthening organizations, and building high-performance cultures.

A survivor of a brutal assault, Erika uses her platform to advocate for domestic violence awareness and empower others to reclaim their voice.

Above all, she is a proud wife and mother to Drew and Adelyn and believes deeply in showing her children life's greatest lessons through her actions.

Authority Bio (Speaker Introductions | ~450–500 words)

Erika Rothenberger is a nationally recognized keynote speaker, media personality, bestselling author, and thought leader on audacity, leadership, and personal expansion. Through powerful storytelling and deeply practical insights, she inspires audiences to push beyond perceived limitations and build lives and careers defined by courage, resilience, and intentional growth.

Erika has appeared on FOX News and has been featured in numerous media outlets for her work in leadership development and empowerment. In 2025, she was named Dynamic Woman of the Year by Modern Luxury – Philadelphia Style, recognizing her influence in advancing women, leadership, and bold professional growth.

She is the bestselling author of Audacious Expansion, released February 22, 2026, and the author of You've Got This, Boss Mama. Her work centers on a powerful philosophy: true expansion happens when we intentionally add the right weight to our lives—challenges that build strength, courage, and the capacity to grow beyond what we once believed possible.

Erika is also the founder of the Audacious Women's Summit, a sold-out leadership experience designed to inspire women to expand their voices, leadership, and influence. She is the host of the widely respected Grit, Grace & Glitz Podcast, where she shares conversations with leaders, entrepreneurs, and change-makers about resilience, reinvention, and the courage to lead boldly.

Professionally, Erika serves as Director of Performance Systems at Henkels & McCoy, a national infrastructure solutions company. With a background in engineering and field operations, she has built a career in the construction and infrastructure industry—one traditionally dominated by men—while focusing on developing people, strengthening leadership, and creating high-performance cultures across organizations.

In addition to her corporate leadership, Erika is an accomplished entrepreneur who has successfully built ventures in real estate, wellness, and leadership coaching.

Her story also carries deep personal resilience. As a survivor of a brutal assault, Erika has become a powerful advocate for domestic violence awareness and survivor empowerment. She uses her voice and platform to inspire others to reclaim their strength, speak their truth, and build lives defined not by what happened to them—but by what they choose to create next.

Above all, Erika is grounded by her role as a wife and mother to two incredible children, Drew and Adelyn. She believes the greatest leadership lessons are not only spoken but demonstrated, and she is deeply committed to showing her children through her actions what courage, integrity, and audacious expansion truly look like.